Are you certain that the device is a laser?

The device is a laser → Yes

No / Don't know

Yes → Is its intended use finding faults on fibre optic cables? → No

Yes → Is it specialist equipment for use in construction or surveying? → No

Yes → Can it be used to measure distances? → No

Yes → Is it supplied with fixtures for mounting on a rifle (as a sighting aid)? → No

Yes → Is it intended for use as a rescue flare? → No

Yes → Is it being supplied to, or acquired by, the NZ Armed Forces? → No

No → Can it be operated on batteries? → Yes

No → Can it be used easily while held in the hand? → Yes

No → Is the rated output power greater than 1 mW, or is it marked as Class 3, 4, III or IV (with or without an additional letter after the 3 or III)? (if there are no markings, select the Don't Know option) → Yes

Does it have this "starburst" symbol on it? (note: the symbol may be black, red or another colour) → Yes / No

Does it produce a fine beam of a single colour (eg. red, green, blue) which produces a small spot at distances of 10 – 100 metres? → Yes / No

Is it intended to provide illumination over a wide area (eg. for use with night vision equipment)? → Yes

No / Dont know

You should seek more information from the manufacturer/ supplier

Dont know

The device is not covered by the regulations

The device is covered by the regulations

The device is not a laser, and not covered by the regulations